How to Become A Greener School

The Earth is our home but we have turned it into a terrible place. Sooner or later, the Earth won't be a suitable place for human beings to live unless we all start to create greener school. The best way to start a greener school is to practice the three "R"s, reduce, reuse and recycle.

The first thing is reduce. Use less electricity. We should turn off the lights when we go out from the classroom. We should also turn off the air-conditioner. If we don't stop wasting electricity, it may be a waste of energy. Also, we can try to repair broken things instead of buying new one. The second thing is reuse. Use things again. We should donate our old books, toys, clothes, stationeries and food to someone who need them. If we donate some of our old things, then other people can use it. Last but not least is recycle. Use both sides of the paper and recycle old things, for example, tissue box or toilet paper rolls.

If we become a greener school, we can help to save the environment. This is because if everyone starts to do and practice the three "R"s, it can slow down the global environmental problem of our world.
